

the seduction of the outside

The disabled inside.

An inside that appears to have interesting content, it seems that there is something useful behind the cover, At least that is what the outside is telling Me, but I'm not sure.

It is attractive and soft like a warm skin wrapped around the content, A touch and I can't resist anymore, I need to have it now.

This is what happened to me when I limited myself by looking only at the outside of the books, the covers from the Library. I made my choice by this criteria.

A strange thing to do so, books are mostly useful to read, browse and understand, so by concentrating only on the outside by not knowing for sure what's inside I made my choice like in supermarket. The best looking meal was something fast and easy, like a microwave dinner. We all know that it looks good at the outside, attractive when you're hungry, (yes I was hungry for a book) designed to pick it the first.. And then there is of course the most important thing, the taste of it....also known as the inside of the book.

So When I opened the book at home, I had high expectations, almost too high.

Afterwards it seemed that at the moment I had to choose a book my brain was not functioning anymore, not thinking of where to use the book for, all wise intentions are blocked and I made a choice because I was tempted by the outside.

Many people make a choice like this, sometimes things are "just" attractive to you, than you completely forget about the rest and sometimes look back and think:
